

Cambio Healthcare Systems selected for US Market export program

Cambio Healthcare Systems AB has been selected by the CB Health Access project for the advancement of health tech entrepreneurship for an assessment of the company's Clinical Decision Support Solution for The US Health market. The US Health market comprises the world largest in terms of buying power.

Cambio has together with its Swedish customers under several years developed a cutting edge tool for clinical decision support. A clinical informatics tool based on open EHR Technology independent of EHR that enables clinical monitoring and clinical intervention based on evidence founded on medical guidelines in a machine readable format.

The need for solutions like this is steadily increasing in the healthcare community both by providers, payers and last but not least patients and citizens. The driver is the pursuit for Value based care.

- Its very promising and awarding that Cambio can take this step together with the Swedish Medtech association and partners to fulfill an assessment for market entry in the US for our CDS solution, says Jan E Larsson, Sales Director, Cambio Healthcare Systems. We are very excited to release a solution based on open innovation technology to the market worldwide, he continues.

Swedish Medtech is the Association for Medical Technology in Sweden with 170 member companies from both manufacturers and distributors.
